Estes Park and Rocky Mountain National Park

Estes Park and neighboring Rocky Mountain National Park are two of Colorado's top destinations for families and lovers of scenic beauty. In the park, more than 100 peaks rise about 11,000 feet, including Longs Peak at 14,295 feet. Many of the taller peaks make up the Continental Divide, where snowmelt runs either west to the Pacific Ocean or east to the Atlantic. Boulder

Boulder has been named the happiest place in the U.S. and it's no surprise with its year-round outdoor activities, talented chefs, breweries, and vibrant downtown scene. Cresting the hill on Highway 36 into Boulder, the dramatic sandstone slabs of the Flatirons and the snow-capped peaks gaze down. It is easy to see why this intriguing town has been dubbed "the city nestled between the mountains and reality." Come explore pine-scented trails, taste the flavors of "America's Foodiest Town," tour 21 craft breweries, stroll historic Pearl Street, and soak up this creative community's laid-back lifestyle.

Denver

Denver makes a great starting place for travelers venturing into the Rockies. Those looking for a mountain experience can spend a day driving along the Mount Evans Scenic Byway. But don't miss out on all that the Mile High City has to offer! Denver is home to numerous museums, galleries, and restaurants. Sports fans are drawn to the lights of Coors Field and Empower Field at Mile High, while families can spend hours exploring the Denver Museum of Nature & Science or the Denver Zoo. For a taste of old-time Denver, spend some time in Larimer Square – also a good place to sample some of the city's cuisine and, of course, beer.
